

Dear Alan:

The American College of Medical Practice Executives (ACMPE) now has 10 sites in Georgia where you can take the certification exams.

Starting in March, the ACMPE board certification exams will be offered at more than 200 testing sites around the country, including two in Atlanta and one in Marietta, in conjunction with the ACT Center Network. This partnership not only adds hundreds of locations to take the computerized examinations, it allows examinees the ability to schedule the day and time of their exams. Taking the board certification exams has never been more convenient.

Visit mgma.com/exams for details on how to register for the exams, and mgma.com/acmpe for information about all of the requirements for earning the Certified Medical Practice Executive (CMPE) credential.

This is very exciting news.
